

SANDRO CORSARO
Chief Creative Officer
Fandango

Sandro Corsaro is the Chief Creative Officer for Fandango, the nation's leading moviegoer destination with direct ticketing access to more than 24,000 screens. As Fandango's chief creative executive, Corsaro provides strategic and operational leadership for content development and creative executions across Fandango's online and mobile platforms, and oversees the visual design, editorial, content and original video teams.

A seasoned content creator, producer, animator and author, Corsaro was the executive producer and creator of the Disney XD animated series, "Kick Buttowski: Suburban Daredevil," where he led all aspects of the Emmy Award-nominated show including writing, design, animation, and casting. Prior to that, Corsaro held the position of creative director at Disney Interactive where he supervised all online creative across design development, original content, ad sales, user experience and copywriting, as well as overseeing the company's connected, cross-platform media experiences. During his tenure at Disney Interactive, Corsaro oversaw two major re-launches of Disney.com, successfully helping increase traffic to record levels. Corsaro has also held creative positions at Crest Digital and MTV Networks, and animation positions at Revolution Studios and Warner Bros Animation.