

TRACY WOLFSON
Lead Reporter
THE NFL ON CBS

Tracy Wolfson is an Emmy Award-nominated reporter for CBS Sports. She was named THE NFL ON CBS's lead game reporter in May 2014 and teams with lead announce team of Jim Nantz and Phil Simms on all Thursday Night Football games on CBS and NFL Network, and select Sunday games on THE NFL ON CBS.

Wolfson served 10 years as the lead college football reporter for the Network's coverage of the Southeastern Conference working with one of the top broadcast teams in the country in Verne Lundquist and Gary Danielson since 2004.

In addition to college football she also worked select NFL games, including last year's AFC Wild Card, Divisional and Championship games, as well as coverage of the 2013 Super Bowl. Wolfson also serves as a reporter for CBS Sports' coverage of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championship and has been the lead reporter on the Final Four since 2009.

Wolfson has been involved with coverage of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, Auto Racing, Skiing, Snowboarding, Ice Skating, Gymnastics, Track and Field and Rodeo for the Network. In addition, she has anchored the CBS Sports Desk throughout the year and hosted "At the Half" during basketball season. Wolfson has contributed in various ways as a host and reporter for CBS Sports Network, including hosting her own show "Tackling the Trends."

Wolfson also serves as a reporter for Turner Sports for select NBA regular season and playoff games. Prior to CBS, Wolfson served as an anchor/reporter for the Madison Square Garden Network and also worked for ESPN as a Host/Reporter covering U.S. Open Golf, College Football and Arena Football (2002-03).

Wolfson began her on-air broadcasting career in 2000 at WZBN-TV in Trenton, N.J. as a sports anchor, reporter and producer. She has worked for Oxygen Sports, Long Island News Tonight and News-12 Long Island. Wolfson began her professional career at CBS Sports in 1997 as a researcher working on U.S. Open Tennis, the 1998 Olympic Winter Games and the 1997 NCAA Final Four.

Raised in Congers, N.Y., Wolfson graduated with a degree in communications from the University of Michigan and currently resides in the New York City area with her husband and three sons.
